CLAIMS

The following listing of claims replaces all prior versions or listings of claims pending in the application:

- 5 1. (currently amended) A computer-implemented method of designing an integrated circuit, comprising the steps of:
- a) establishing a central specification for the integrated circuit, the central specification designating a plurality of cores and a plurality of interconnections between the cores;
- 10 b) establishing a set of software language models for the cores, each software language model implementing an internal algorithm of one of the cores;
- c) establishing a set of hardware description language models for the cores, each hardware description language model implementing an internal logic of one of the cores;
- 15 d) generating software language core interconnection code for interconnecting the software language models according to the central specification, to generate a software language model of the circuit; and
- e) generating hardware description language core interconnection code for interconnecting the hardware description language models according to the central specification, to generate a hardware description language model of the circuit, ~~the hardware description language core interconnection code designating a set of intercore handshake connections and a set of corresponding intercore data connections.~~
- 20
- 25 2. (original) The method of claim 1 wherein:
- a) the central specification designates a set of input tokens and a set of output tokens for each core; and
- b) the central specification designates a set of token fields for each interconnection.
- 30
3. (original) The method of claim 2 wherein generating the hardware description language core interconnection code comprises generating a set of port declarations from the sets of token fields, input tokens, and output tokens defined in the central specification.
